

This is an end user license agreement, which specifies aspects of copyright, embedding and warranty, between Bold-Decisions.biz and the entity stated on the invoice, upon payment. The object behind this agreement is a digital typeface, which is governed by the same laws as computer software.

You are purchasing a specific amount of licenses, which are to be used on a specific amount of locations, but not restricted geographically. This license prohibits you from distributing and altering the files received in any way.

You may only share a copy of the file/s with a prepress office - This prepress office will have to destroy the file upon completing the job.

The digital typeface/s purchased and specified on the invoice is intellectual property of Bold-Decisions.biz Altering of files is prohibited.

The trial files supplied are for personal testing only - any commercial use is strictly prohibited. This includes use of files in showcases of work that may not be directly personal, but can be judged to exist in order to generate commercial work.

We require you to use only the .WOFF files provided on websites. OTF files are not permitted to be included on websites, and any such occurrence represents a breach of this license.

We cannot provide refunds on digital files sold, but we are happy to work with you to resolve any issues that might occur in usage of our typefaces.

We cannot provide support for issues that have to do with applications that do not support custom fonts.

We are not liable for any damages or incidents in your project, loss of profit or any third party issues, that occur whilst using our typefaces.

With your purchase, we commit to contact you about future minor updates regarding fonts purchased, as we always treat them as in-process. Major updates, such as the addition of new regional alphabets to a typeface must be purchased.

This EULA will terminate if you fail to comply to above mentioned specifics.

In which case you will have to stop using the files instantaneously and delete them. Any dispute regarding the agreement, will be treated in the Danish courts.

Bold-Decisions.biz